

RAISE THE CAP

Constitutional Amendment

THIS NOVEMBER

Utahns will vote on an amendment that would increase the LAND Trust distribution cap from 4% to 5%

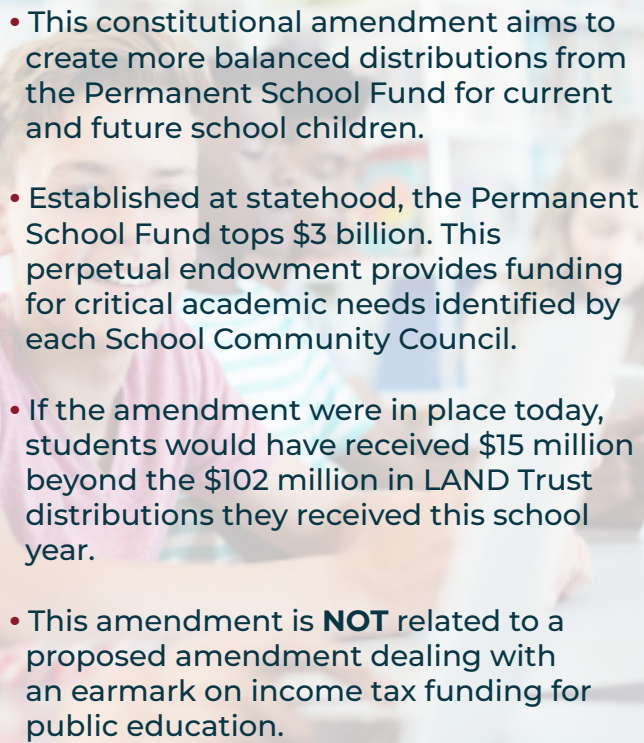

Raising the cap costs taxpayers nothing, it simply increases the percentage of LAND Trust distributions schools may receive from the Permanent School Fund.

Utah Land Trusts
Protection &
Advocacy Office

Learn More: landtrustsadvocacy.utah.gov

- This constitutional amendment aims to create more balanced distributions from the Permanent School Fund for current and future school children.
- Established at statehood, the Permanent School Fund tops $3 billion. This perpetual endowment provides funding for critical academic needs identified by each School Community Council.
- If the amendment were in place today, students would have received $15 million beyond the $102 million in LAND Trust distributions they received this school year.
- This amendment is NOT related to a proposed amendment dealing with an earmark on income tax funding for public education.

-
- This constitutional amendment aims to create more balanced distributions from the Permanent School Fund for current and future school children.
 - Established at statehood, the Permanent School Fund tops $3 billion. This perpetual endowment provides funding for critical academic needs identified by each School Community Council.
 - If the amendment were in place today, students would have received $15 million beyond the $102 million in LAND Trust distributions they received this school year.
 - This amendment is NOT related to a proposed amendment dealing with an earmark on income tax funding for public education.